PSA Security Network Elects Mike Kobelin, ASG's Director of Sales, to Chairman of the Board

Seattle, Washington—May 8, 2009 — Aronson Security Group (ASG) is proud to announce that PSA Security Network has elected Mike Kobelin, ASG's Director of Sales for the state of Oregon, as their new Chairman of the Board of Directors.

PSA Security Network, the world's largest electronic security cooperative, elected Kobelin, as well as other directors, at the 2009 PSA-TEC in St. Charles, IL. Kobelin has been an active member of PSA since 1991 and has spent the last eight years on the Board of Directors, originally as the Western Regional Board Member and most recently as the Vice Chairman.

With more than 25 years working in the security industry, Kobelin brings a history of leadership and experience to his role as Chairman. As the Director of Sales and a senior member of the executive management team for ASG, Kobelin is well versed in the trends, challenges and solutions that exist in the security industry. Through his leadership, ASG continues to be one of the premier integrators of enterprise security systems.

"The members of the PSA Security Network's Board are widely recognized as leaders in the industry," said Kobelin. "Leveraging the same experience, thought leadership, and integrity that I bring to the executive management team of ASG, I believe that I will be able to lead PSA's board in working together with PSA management to implement key new initiatives. We're currently poised to increase our membership and access to innovative technology as well as provide enhanced services to members that we know will create strategic value for all our clients around the world."

The eight-member board represents over 200 member companies nationwide.
